Introduction

Each year the State Records Office of WA (SRO) publishes an online Guide to State Cabinet records which have been released from their 30-year restriction access period in the previous calendar year. This year's Guide reviews the 1992 State Cabinet minutes and decisions from .

State Cabinet records are historically significant documents which reveal the decisions made by the government of the day. These unique records are the primary source documents for information about the issues raised at Cabinet meetings. This online Guide is intended to assist the Western Australian community with access to these records.

This Guide also provides an overview of Western Australian state issues in 1992, as well as highlighting a few prominent national and international news events of that year for context. A list of the topics and subjects discussed at each meeting of State Cabinet in 1992 is provided in this Guide to assist with further research into the records. This list includes a link to the SRO's online catalogue to enable the public to view relevant State Cabinet records online.

Unlike the release of Cabinet papers at the Commonwealth level, where records comprising more sensitive information can be embargoed beyond the restriction access period for the remaining records, all State Cabinet records for Western Australia are generally released for public access 30 years after the records are created.

This year (2023) the Guide to the 1992 State Cabinet Records has been produced with the assistance of Ms Mehardeep Kaur, a student from the University of Western Australia during a McCusker Centre for Citizenship Internship at the SRO. During her placement she researched the 1992 State Cabinet Minutes and Decisions and Meeting Summaries, compiling a detailed list of Cabinet meeting subjects (see pp.12 - 36), as well as drafting sections on world, national and local events.

How to access State Cabinet papers in the State archive collection

Description of the 1992 State Cabinet Records

The primary set of State Cabinet records referred to in this Guide is called 'Cabinet Minutes and Decisions.' State Cabinet Minutes and Decisions include agendas and submissions to Cabinet and are listed chronologically. They record the meetings of State Cabinet held between 06 January 1992 and 05 January 1993 inclusive, and are described on SRO's catalogue as State Cabinet Minutes and Decisions (Series 1228, Consignment 4736).

Other State Cabinet records which complement the Minutes and Decisions, include Cabinet Meeting Summaries for 1992 (Series 1230, Consignment 4823, items S11), and submissions, reports and other accompanying documents to the Minutes and Decisions, each of which is described as a "Cabinet Record" (Series 1228, Consignment 6150).

World Events that Made the News in 1992(1)

The year 1992 was a significant one in terms of global events that had a profound impact on the world. The U.S. President Bush and the Russian President Yeltsin jointly announced that the Cold War has ended. This was followed by the dissolution of the Soviet Union which had been a superpower for several decades. These events had far-reaching consequences which permanently altered the international political space.

Besides that, the year witnessed the signing of the Maastricht Treaty, which led to the formation of the European Union in the following year. Furthermore, the treaty established a single currency, the euro, which paved the way for closer political and economic integration among member states.

Environmental Issues were also at the forefront of public attention in 1992. The United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED), also known as the Earth Summit, was held in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil during June 1992. Australia's delegation, led by Prime Minister Paul Keating, advocated for greater international cooperation to address environmental challenges.

Various developments were observed in the world of technology. In December 1992, the first ever text message was transmitted when Engineer Neil Papworth typed "merry Christmas" on a computer and sent it to the Vodafone director Richard Jarvis' cell phone. Also, the popular file type JPEG, an acronym for "Joint Photographic Experts Group" was introduced as a standard for digital images in 1992.

In Popular Culture, the release of the movie "Aladdin" became a worldwide success that is still celebrated to this date. Critically acclaimed American filmmaker Quentin Tarantino debuted with the release of "Reservoir Dogs" which is often regarded as a classic in the independent and cult film genre. Pop music was dominated by Whitney Houston, whose hit song "I Will Always Love You" spent a record-breaking 14 weeks at the top of the Billboard Hot 100 chart. The popular video game "Mortal Kombat" was released, sparking debates about the portrayal of violence in video games.

Several notable events took place in the world of sports during the year. The Barcelona Olympics was held, where Michael Jordan and the "Dream Team" won gold for basketball. Tennis player Andre Agassi won his first Grand Slam title in Wimbledon. In football, the European Championship was won by Denmark, who only qualified due to the disqualification of Yugoslavia after the outbreak of the Yugoslav wars.

Australian Events that Made the News in 1992(2)

The country witnessed several landmark events that shaped the socio-political space. The Mabo ruling, handed down by the High Court in June 1992, recognized the existence of native title, replacing and overturning the 17th century notion of terra nullius. On 10 December, Prime Minister Keating delivered a historic speech in Redfern Park, launching Australia's program for the International Year of the World's Indigenous People.

Australia played a key role in the United Nations peacekeeping mission in Cambodia in 1992. The country contributed troops and resources to the mission, aiming to bring stability to the war-torn country following years of conflict. This mission was successful leading to the beginning of a new era of peace in Cambodia.

The economy was a topic of concern in 1992 as Australians struggled to make ends meet. The country was going through the aftermath of a recession facing unemployment and other economic problems. This led to a range of policy reforms aiming at reducing inflation and stimulating growth.

In 1992, Australia experienced its share of natural disasters which included severe droughts leading to a loss of crops and livestock, affecting farmers and rural communities across the nation. In addition to that, a series of bushfires in the states of New South Wales and Victoria destroyed homes and claimed several lives.

The Cricket World Cup 1992 was jointly hosted by Australia and New Zealand, being the first to feature coloured jerseys, white cricket balls and black sight screens, with several matches being played under floodlights. The final was played between England and Pakistan, where Pakistan emerged victorious. The World Cup was a significant event in Australian Cricket history as it marked the beginning of their dominance in the sport.

1992 was a year of firsts and lasts in the world of Pop culture where the first Big Day Out music festival was held at the Sydney Showground, headlined by Violent Femmes and Nirvana. Shortly after, the first WOMADelaide festival was also held at Botanic Park as part of the Adelaide Festival of Arts. ABC debuted the children's favourite TV series Bananas in Pyjamas in 1992. Popular TV shows like Fast Forward, Acropolis Now and The Big Gig came to an end during the year.

Events and Issues in WA Politics in 1992(3)

The State Government was led by the Premier Carmen Lawrence, who was a member of the Labour Party.

The Royal Commission into Commercial Activities of Government (WA Inc) continued its investigation into allegations of corruption involving the Labour government. The Commission found that some members of the Labour government had engaged in illegal activities to enrich themselves and their associates.

The release of the Royal Commission into Aboriginal Deaths in Custody's final report in July led to calls for reform of the justice system. In response, the Cabinet meeting established a new department for Indigenous Affairs and increased funding for programs aimed at improving Indigenous health, education, and employment.

On the economic forefront, Western Australia was struggling due to a downturn in the mining industry. There was severe criticism received by the state for its handling of the economic situation, with some arguing that it had not done enough to diversify the state's economy and reduce its reliance on mining.

Other issues discussed at the cabinet meetings included the need to improve road infrastructure in the state, the impact of the introduction of the Goods and Services Tax (GST), increases in pay-roll tax thresholds, and the provision of more public housing. The government also introduced a range of new legislation, including amendments to the Mining Act, and laws to establish an Environmental Appeals Committee.

Overall, 1992 was a challenging year for Western Australia, with significant political, economic, and social events dominating the state’s agenda. Despite these challenges, the state continued to move forward and make progress towards a more just and equitable society.
