

TAC Update

Issue 91 - February 2024

Welcome to the February TAC Update

On 25 August 2023, Skills Ministers agreed to make early changes to the current Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015. These early changes are designed to address current pressures on the VET workforce and provide more immediate benefits to the sector. The changes are in areas that had broad sector support in the early consultation process undertaken by the Commonwealth Government's Department of Employment and Workplace Relations (DEWR).

It is anticipated these changes will commence in March 2024 and will be accompanied by additional guidance for the sector.

The early changes to the Standards include various key amendments including:

- Reflecting new and updated training products from the updated Training and Education (TAE) Training Package;
- Enabling people who hold an education degree to be engaged as trainers and/or assessors;
- Enabling people actively working towards the Certificate IV or Diploma from the TAE Training Package to deliver training and contribute to assessment under supervision;
- Enabling broader use of industry experts;
- Aligning with recent changes to the Fit and Proper Person Requirements; and
- Make minor clarifications and amendments.

To assist RTOs in navigating these changes, the Council will be conducting a webinar on 11 March 2024, providing an overview of the changes and what it could mean for your RTO. Additionally, another webinar specifically focusing on the changes to Trainer and Assessor requirements will be scheduled for 22 April 2024. More information on these webinars can be found further on in this Update.

The Council are currently working on additional resources to support RTOs with the early changes to the Standards and will make these available shortly.

Focus on Quality: Safeguarding VET Quality Against Organisations Purporting to be RTOs

The Vocational Education and Training (VET) sector plays a pivotal role in shaping skilled and knowledgeable professionals across many and varied industries. In times of skills shortages and high training demand, there may be individuals or organisations that seek to take advantage of the training market by claiming to be an RTO when they are not registered with a VET regulator such as TAC, or will certificate learners for qualifications or courses for which they don't have scope. These individuals or organisations are classed as 'purporting' to be RTOs and could undermine the credibility of the VET system, potentially leading to substandard education and the issuance of fraudulent certificates or statements of attainment.

Every authorised RTO possesses a unique RTO code, which can be validated on training.gov.au. RTOs need to ensure that their code is displayed on marketing materials for easy identification, and any third parties must clearly identify their associated RTO. This additional layer of scrutiny can help stakeholders distinguish genuine RTOs from fraudulent ones.

The Council urges RTOs and stakeholders to report to TAC suspected cases of purporting via the Council complaints process. This process is designed to be accessible and straightforward. Once complaints are received, an investigation is conducted to verify the authenticity of the individuals/organisations. In cases where complaints about purporting are substantiated, action to safeguard the interests of students and the broader VET sector will be undertaken.

General information related to verified complaints may be published to educate the sector further on this issue, fostering transparency and awareness.

(Note – Purporting under the Vocational Education and Training Act(1996) refers to an organisation or individuals that claim to be an RTO when they are not registered with a VET regulator; or is registered but is not permitted to confer the course or qualification.)

AVETMISS Reporting

Total VET Activity (TVA) is a mandatory national reporting requirement for RTOs.

RTOs are required to collect and submit full AVETMISS data on all nationally recognised training where there is a responsibility for issuing a statement of attainment or qualification.

All publicly funded data reporting is submitted directly to the Department of Training and Workforce Development (DTWD), the State Training Authority (STA) in WA via current Resource Allocation Program for Training (RAPT) reporting requirements.

All other data (i.e. non publicly funded data) is reported directly to NCVER. The window for reporting 2023 AVETMISS data directly is now open and closes on 29 February 2024.

Update to Accredited Course forms

The Application for Course Accreditation and Application for Amendment to Accredited Course forms have been updated. The new forms request additional information to ensure Course Owners demonstrate that the appropriate consultation has been undertaken by qualified/experienced industry representatives, and how their input has benefitted the need for or development of the course as result.

The updated forms are available on the Course Accreditation Application Forms page on the TAC website and are required for all new applications for accreditation, reaccreditation and amendment.

Transition extensions

At the February 2024 meeting, the Council agreed to extend the transition period for the following training product until 31 December 2024:

- CHC33015 Certificate III in Individual Support
