Democracy
a system of government

Dictatorship –
a country under absolute rule of just one person

Absolute monarchy - where a King or Queen has all the power and this power is passed down through the monarch's family

Other systems of government include

Their definition of democracy when translated is

Rule by the people

Originated in

Ancient Greece

An example of a country with this type is

Direct Democracy

a form of government in which all laws are created by a general vote of society.

Two types are

Representative Democracy is a system of government in which all eligible citizens vote on representatives to pass laws for them

An example of a country with this type is

Australia

Has been shaped through

Historical events

such as Magna Carta

Values
principles or beliefs

Have certain

The group with the power

Citizens
people who legally belong to, give allegiance to, and have the rights and protections of a country

Based on certain

Must follow the Votes for politicians to represent them in Parliament

where the elected representatives meet

Make the

Laws

a rule of conduct or action that a nation of people agrees to follow