

State Design Review Panel – Biographies

Finn Pederson

Director

Iredale Pedersen Hook

Finn is a Director of Iredale Pedersen Hook Architects, a Perth and Melbourne based studio with a diverse body of work throughout Australia. Finn has an interest in culture, social justice, landscape, and how architecture can affect and enhance the relationship between people and place. He has worked with many Aboriginal communities throughout Western Australia and is particularly interested in how architecture and design can provide innovative solutions that are deeply respectful of traditional culture.

Finn's areas of expertise include sustainable and indigenous design in urban, regional and remote communities. He has worked on most building typologies include health and education facilities, interpretive and exhibition design, as well as public housing and justice facilities.

He is a member of the Australian Institute of Architect's First Nations Advisory Working Group, a Board member of the Wyemando Aboriginal Bequest and the Jimmy Pike Trust and was a co-founder of Environs Kimberley.
