

State Design Review Panel – Biographies

Dr Ryan Falconer

Department of Transport

With qualifications in sustainability, technology policy and geography, Ryan brings a strong suite of knowledge in urban mobility, transport, and evaluation of outcomes for the community and environment. He has expertise identifying and addressing strategic issues and drivers of change.

Ryan has previously provided strategic advice to Waterfront Toronto in Canada and held senior committee positions with Toronto's Urban Land Institute and Toronto Region Board of Trade.

Ryan believes that Design Review and the State Design Review Panel set clear expectations and raise the bar with respect for design rigour. He believes this in turn means more accountability for all stakeholders, leading to better outcomes for communities as focus is placed on innovation, liveability, and sustainability.
