

SOLiD FUTURES

Aboriginal traineeship program

Kickstart your career and learn new skills in 2024

We have an awesome opportunity for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people aged 16 years and older.

“Solid Futures was a perfect way to explore potential job roles straight out of high school - and unlike university, it allowed me to get paid to learn!”

Magan – Solid Futures Aboriginal traineeship program graduate now working for Department of Justice.

Why choose the public sector?

Trainees work in teams on all sorts of different projects, and get experience using computers and office equipment and systems.

You are paid a fortnightly salary while working towards a Certificate III in Government – this can help you get your next job.

We help develop your skills and give you the right tools to become a future leader.

We are creating a more diverse and welcoming workforce that has opportunities for everyone.

What happens at the end of the traineeship?

You graduate with a nationally recognised qualification.

You get to hear about learning and career options to further your career.

Head to WA.gov.au and search for Solid Futures

Applications close 2 October 2023

Acknowledgement of Country

We are proud to deliver our services from Whadjuk Noongar boodja.

We acknowledge and pay our respects to Elders, Traditional Owners and Custodians from the many land and language groups of Western Australia.