

Your voice matters

Young people aged 10 to 25 years make up nearly 20 per cent of Western Australia's population, so your voice and contribution matters.

If you're keen to make a positive impact on issues that affect young people now, and in the future, here are some ways to get involved.

Ministerial Youth Advisory Council (MYAC)

This consultative advisory body is made up of 12 young Western Australians aged 15 to 25 years, who are passionate about using their voices to highlight issues of importance to young people.

MYAC members represent their peers and provide advice to the Minister for Youth on matters relating to young people, drawing on their own experiences and perspectives.

For more details, visit the MYAC page at wa.gov.au or scan the QR code.

Youth Parliament

This program gives young people aged 15 to 25 an opportunity to express their views, concerns and solutions to those with the power to make a change.

Participants spend time in committees developing bills and attend a week-long camp during which legislation and other motions are debated in the State Parliament.

Could you be the next 2025 Youth Week Ambassador?

If you or someone you know is passionate about being a voice for young people and would enjoy being involved in the planning, promotion and delivery of a range of incredible Youth Week WA events throughout the State, then this opportunity could be for you!

Our volunteer ambassadors contribute to events and strategies for Youth Week WA, provide support and guidance to the Young People's Planning Committee and speak about Youth Week WA in the media and at events.
