What does it mean to be a licensed Funeral Director?

In Western Australia, legislation requires that Funeral Directors must be issued with a licence to operate.

The Metropolitan Cemeteries Board issues licences for Funeral Directors to conduct funerals at each of the six metropolitan cemetery sites managed by the MCB. These are Karrakatta, Fremantle, Midland and Guildford cemeteries, as well as Pinnaroo Valley and Rockingham Regional Memorial Parks.

For funeral services conducted outside of these cemeteries, Funeral Directors will be licensed by regional cemetery boards or local councils.

METROPOLITAN CEMETERIES BOARD

What does it mean to be licensed by the Metropolitan Cemeteries Board (MCB)?

Funeral Directors licensed by the MCB are required to do the following:

- Adhere to the MCB Funeral Director Code of Conduct
- Meet all legislative requirements
- Meet certain standards required by the MCB
- Have the appropriate equipment, vehicles and facilities
- Have the appropriate insurances in place
- Undertake ongoing professional development as required by the MCB

MCB-issued Funeral Director licences are reviewed annually. Our aim is to ensure that standards are met and that the community's interests are protected during a particularly vulnerable time.

Are Funeral Directors members of industry associations?

In Western Australia, some Funeral Directors are members of Funerals Australia, formerly the Australian Funeral Directors Association, others choose not to join an association.

In addition to adhering to the Code of Conduct and Conditions of Issue of Licence required by the MCB, members of Funerals Australia may have other standards and codes of practice that they must meet.

Funerals Australia

Funerals Australia Members are bound by a strict Code of Ethics and Practice designed to meet both community needs and expectations in all aspects of service delivery. The Code is a reassurance to the community of sincere care and professional service, particularly at a time of uncertainty and distress for grieving families and relatives.

Prospective member firms must comply with required standards for Premises, Equipment and Vehicles (PEV) before Funerals Australia membership is granted. Re-accreditation is required every three years.

Funerals Australia develops and promotes professional standards in the funeral industry. In conjunction with its Membership, community groups and professional expertise, they have developed several standards for industry practice. These are based upon fundamental and legitimate occupational health and safety, public health, legal and community standards. Funerals Australia member firms are required to abide by these standards.
