More than 40 finalists announced for 2026 WA Training Awards

- 30 individual finalists recognised for their achievements in WA's vocational training sector – including 14 regional finalists
- 11 organisations set to compete in four categories
- Individual winners will inspire the next generation of WA's workforce to pursue vocational training pathways
- Winners will be announced at a presentation ceremony on 10 September 2026

The State Government has today announced the 41 finalists vying for the 2026 WA Training Awards.

Each year, the Department of Training and Workforce Development hosts the WA Training Awards to celebrate the individuals, employers and organisations driving excellence in vocational education and training (VET) and highlight future leaders whose success stories help inspire others to pursue VET pathways.

This year's awards recognise 30 individual finalists across eight award categories, including the WA Apprentice, Trainee and Vocational Student of the Year.

The WA School-based Apprentice of the Year Award recognises secondary students for their commitment to their studies at school and in the workplace. School-based apprenticeships give students the opportunity to get hands-on skills and experience in industry-relevant workplaces as part of a nationally recognised qualification.

In 2026, three students from Hedland Senior High School have been recognised for their training achievements with Ameerah Tullock-Brierly, Adam Hobden, and Lee Stimpson all finalists in the WA School-based Apprentice of the Year award category.

The Hedland Senior High School finalists are among a growing number of secondary school students choosing to undertake vocational training opportunities as part of their WA Certificate of Education (WACE).

Year 12 School Captain, Ameerah, is completing a school-based traineeship in Business Administration working with Fortescue Metals Group and aims to establish a long-term career in WA's resources industry.

Through his Certificate II in Rail Infrastructure, Adam has gained hands-on experience and workplace skills, putting him on the fast track to achieving his goal of becoming a train driver.

Keen to build skills across both port and rail operations to maximise his employment opportunities, Lee is undertaking training in Engineering and Rail Track Maintenance and plans to pursue a career as a heavy diesel mechanic or in an electrical trade.

Individual award recipients will become ambassadors for WA's vocational training sector, where they will have the opportunity to take part in promotional activities and speaking engagements to inspire others to take up vocational training pathways.

2025 WA Apprentice of the Year Lewis Italiano exemplifies the transformative nature of skills training and has taken part in various media and presentation opportunities to promote the incredible opportunities available through vocational pathways. Since winning the Award last September, Lewis has settled into his second apprenticeship (Certificate III in Carpentry) where he is now mentoring a younger work experience student.

The WA Training Awards also recognise the outstanding support, commitment and contribution training providers and organisations make to building WA's workforce. This year, 11 organisations are shortlisted in four categories including the WA Small Employer of the Year and the Large Training Provider of the Year.

Winners will be announced at a ceremony in September 2026, with individual recipients also taking home a $3,000 cash prize.

The 2026 WA Training Awards are made possible through a partnership with the State Training Board and the generous support of Principal Sponsor MEGT, and category sponsors, the Training Accreditation Council, Apprenticeship Support Australia powered by the Chamber of Commerce of Industry WA, Construction Training Fund, Electrotechnology Training Institute and Jobs and Skills WA.

INDIVIDUAL FINALISTS

WA Trainer of the Year

Katie Clune – Geraldton
Lecturer – Education Support
Central Regional TAFE

With over 18 years in education, Katie is an experienced VET educator and Advanced Skills Lecturer. Specialising in culturally responsive teaching, Aboriginal education, Education Support training and trauma-informed practice, Katie coordinates and delivers programs for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Education Officers in a complex regional environment. She was responsible for designing and implementing a culturally responsive and culturally safe two-year Certificate III in School Based Education Support program, developed in collaboration with Aboriginal staff, Elders, and community. Through her work, Katie supports learner success, cultural safety, and positive employment outcomes.

Rebecca Neumann – Nickol
Lecturer – Community Services
North Regional TAFE

Working in remote WA, with its unique challenges, Rebecca has a strong commitment to culturally responsive, culturally safe, trauma-informed and strengths-based education. Rebecca is currently completing a Master of Learning and Teaching in Higher Education, and her work is focused on fostering student success through inclusive teaching, industry collaboration and pathway creation, empowering learners to build skills, confidence and meaningful careers within their communities. With strong industry partnerships, her teaching philosophy is centred on equity and a commitment to helping students into further study and employment.

Timothy Rowberry – Glen Forrest
Trainer – Visual Arts and Design
John Curtin College of the Arts

With expertise in STEM education, Design Thinking and project-based learning, Timothy is an innovative educator delivering senior secondary and VET programs in engineering, digital technologies and design that students can apply to real-life challenges. Drawing on more than 30 years of leadership experience in the Australian Defence Force, including service as a Captain in the Royal Australian Engineers, Timothy creates inclusive, industry-connected learning environments. Recognised for pioneering partnerships and student-led innovation projects, Timothy is passionate about empowering learners to develop creativity, confidence and future-ready career skills.

Yvette Vos – Joondalup
Lecturer – Health
North Metropolitan TAFE

With a physiotherapy degree from South Africa and 16 years of experience spanning across the UK, Australia and her home country, Yvette has demonstrated a lifelong commitment to developing skilled, job-ready Allied Health Assistants through her work in allied health and education. Yvette has extensive clinical experience across public, private and community healthcare settings, which enables her to deliver industry-aligned training that responds to evolving workforce needs. She has contributed to major qualification updates and works closely with industry partners to create practical pathways that support student success and strengthen the healthcare sector.

WA International Student of the Year

Valerie Asmus – East Fremantle

Diploma of Event Management

Trained at: South Metropolitan TAFE

Valerie has always been passionate about events and the opportunity to bring people's ideas to life through memorable experiences. This passion inspired her to pursue a career in events management, where she has developed practical skills, industry knowledge and confidence. Her vocational training has provided her with credit towards a Bachelor of Business Management. Valerie credits her time at TAFE with helping her build lasting friendships, establish valuable industry connections, secure employment opportunities and foster a lifelong love of learning.

Anna Everdell – Coolbellup

Certificate III in Carpentry

Trained at: South Metropolitan TAFE

Originally from Canada, Anna was at a crossroads in her life. She could either return to Canada and work in hospitality, where she previously trained, or pursue a completely new direction. She chose the latter and has never looked back. After completing a Bachelor of Fine Arts, she discovered she preferred a hands-on, skills-based approach to creating. Training in carpentry has allowed her to combine craftsmanship with creativity while opening up strong career opportunities. Throughout her journey, Anna has developed valuable skills, knowledge and confidence to build a rewarding future.

Warona Machingaifa – South Lake

Diploma of Community Services

Trained at: South Metropolitan TAFE

Warona is an international student from Southern Africa, with family connections in Zimbabwe and Botswana. Having completed a Diploma in Community Services, she now has the skills to support vulnerable people and create meaningful change within communities – something she is extremely passionate about. Warona is now studying a Bachelor of Community Services and has a goal to become a caseworker in child protection where she can advocate for vulnerable people and contribute to more inclusive and supportive communities.

Odette Spies – Wanneroo

Certificate III in Patisserie (completed) / Certificate IV in Patisserie (current)

Trained at: North Metropolitan TAFE

Originally from the Netherlands, Odette previously worked as a chef but found an unexpected passion for patisserie. With a graphic design background, Odette found a natural connection between visual creativity and pastry work where presentation and detail were just as important as taste. She soon realised she needed to strengthen her technical skills and take on formal training at TAFE where she is committed to developing her skills and building a strong future in the hospitality industry.

WA Cultural Diversity Training AwardMy Quyen Pham – YorkCertificate II in General Education for AdultsTrained at: Central Regional TAFE

My Quyen migrated to Australia from Vietnam with her family who were looking for new opportunities. She completed a Certificate II in General Education for Adults which gave her the confidence to enrol in a Certificate III in Early Childhood Education and Care. She credits her trainers with helping her through challenges she has faced as a migrant. On the first day of her work placement, My Quyen was offered a position at Northam Early Learning Centre, providing confidence, independence, and a meaningful career pathway in Australia.

Shokooh Rezaei – WannerooCertificate III in Allied Health AssistanceTrained at: North Metropolitan TAFE

Leaving Iran was extremely difficult for Shokooh. She left family, friends and a life she had built so that she could build a better future for herself and her family. Having relocated twice through a humanitarian visa pathway, first to Türkiye (formerly Turkey) and then to Australia, she developed remarkable strength and resilience. Starting again was overwhelming, but Shookooh wants to use her lived experience to now help others. She chose to study allied health because she understands the complexities of difficult situations and wants to help people feel understood and supported.

WA Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Student of the Year

Payton Callope – Lake Grace

Certificate III in Agriculture

Trained at: WA College of Agriculture – Narrogin

Growing up in the rural town of Lake Grace where community values are strong and agriculture is central to everyday life, choosing a VET pathway was a natural fit for Payton. It was a big leap, though, to make the move to Narrogin to board at the WA College of Agriculture. She enjoys the hands-on, practical nature of her course, which aligns with her learning style. Working directly with tools and livestock and engaging in real-life tasks has helped her to stay engaged, develop new skills and build confidence in her abilities.

Kevin Dorizzi – Victory Heights

Diploma of Counselling

Trained at: Central Regional TAFE

Employed by: Bega Garnbirringu Health Services

Kevin is passionate about supporting people within his community. In particular, he is focused on the importance of delivering culturally responsive, culturally safe, respectful and trauma-informed support for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, inspiring him to undertake a Diploma of Counselling. His own personal experience strongly influenced his career pathway, and he is now determined to make a difference and help support others. Kevin is especially committed to improving mental health outcomes and creating a positive change within his community.

Emma Radcliffe – Butler

Certificate III in Business

Trained at: Stanborough Wemyss Contracting

Employed by: Sodexo Australia Pty Ltd

Emma is a proud Ngoonooru Wajarri, Yunguna Nya and Naaguja Yamaji woman and a key member of the Indigenous Affairs team at Sodexo Australia. She completed her Certificate III in Business traineeship and continues to develop and grow her skillset to support her work. She chose this traineeship because she wanted to build a meaningful career that aligned with her values, while helping others to see their potential and create culturally safe and inclusive workplaces.

Sasha Wells – Clarkson

Certificate IV in School Based Education Support

Trained at: North Metropolitan TAFE

Employed by: Sacred Heart College

Supporting young people and guiding them through their learning journey is something Sasha is extremely passionate about. Driven to make a meaningful difference, she chose a career in educational support, believing that education empowers students, creates opportunities and strengthens communities. Her career pathway evolved through previous roles working with Aboriginal people, with each experience reinforcing her commitment to educational support where she believes she can make the biggest difference.

WA Vocational Student of the Year

Darcy Dignam – Greenwood

Certificate IV in Youth Work

Trained at: Strategix Training Group Pty Ltd

Darcy's focus was always on working to provide for his family, but after years of working in the finance sector, he wanted a career where he could make a meaningful difference. Vocational training provided a pathway to study and earn while connecting him with a career he felt passionate about. After undertaking his work placement as part of completing a Certificate IV in Youth Work, Darcy transitioned into employment with Anglicare WA where he now works as a Student Wellbeing Officer at Greenwood College.

Kyle Renton – Baynton (Karratha)

Certificate II in Engineering

Trained at: North Regional TAFE

Kyle has always enjoyed hands-on work and learning how things operate and chose his qualification because he has always enjoyed pulling things apart, learning how they work and figuring out how they can be improved. He says the experience has helped him to become more focused, more patient and better aware of the importance of safety, precision and doing a job properly. He has gained practical skills and is hoping to stay in the industry when he leaves school.

Kai Stanbridge – North Coogee

Certificate IV in Business

Trained at: Fremantle Education Centre

Kai's passion is aviation, but in addition to completing training, licences and a work placement in drone operations, he decided to embark on a Certificate IV in Business to support his career ambitions. His ultimate goal is to run his own aviation business. Kai says the course has helped him develop skills in communication, problem-solving and workplace leadership. He believes long-term success depends on more than operational success, it requires business capability and Kai is well on his way to achieving it thanks to his vocational training

Breanna Zoethout – Wattle Grove

Diploma of Events Management

Trained at: South Metropolitan TAFE

Breanna chose to train and work in events, because she believes it's an industry that brings people together and creates shared experiences that extend beyond the event itself. Having worked with Football West, she has had the opportunity to get involved with a huge variety of events and training programs that support development and strengthen communities. Breanna says her experience while training has strengthened her confidence and helped to reinforce her passion to create meaningful experiences that leave lasting impressions on participants.

WA Trainee of the Year

Annika Brown – South Hedland

Certificate III in Sport, Aquatics and Recreation

Trained at: Royal Life Saving Western Australia

Employed by: Town of Port Hedland

Annika completed a Certificate III in Sports, Aquatics and Recreation while undertaking a traineeship with the Town of Port Hedland. She has had a positive impact in her workplace, introducing collaboration between teams while serving as a positive and inspiring role model for her peers. She is described as demonstrating a level of capability, maturity, and professionalism well beyond her trainee status and exemplifies the success of traineeship programs.

Dakota Ellery-Swain – Dampier

Certificate III in Mobile Crane Operations

Trained at: Australian Training Management

Employed by: Monadelphous

Dakota chose a career that is hands-on, challenging and continually evolving. Through her traineeship, she has built strong technical knowledge while developing critical thinking, problem-solving and practical skills. She enjoys applying what she learns in training to real-world crane operations at Monadelphous, giving her a deeper understanding of the industry. With the guidance and support of experienced mentors, Dakota has grown in confidence and capability, building a strong foundation for a successful career in crane operations.

Hannah Goedhard-Hutchings – Merredin

Certificate III in Automotive Sales

Trained at: Central Regional TAFE

Employed by: AFGRI Equipment

Hannah's passion for supporting farmers inspired her to pursue a career in Automotive Sales, equipping her with the skills and knowledge needed to succeed in the agricultural industry. Through her qualification, she has grown both personally and professionally, building confidence and a strong foundation for her future career. Training at TAFE while working at AFGRI Equipment has enabled Hannah to combine learning with practical experience, developing valuable industry knowledge and hands-on skills.

Sienna Smith – Yangebup

Certificate III in Local Government

Trained at: Western Australian Local Government Association (WALGA)

Employed at: Town of Mosman Park

Completing a Certificate II in Business at TAFE introduced Sienna to vocational training and helped build her confidence. Her passion for community-focused work, combined with a desire for meaningful, hands-on learning, led her to pursue a traineeship in local government. Through the support and guidance of her workplace team, Sienna has been able to apply her training to real-world situations, developing practical skills, valuable experience and a strong foundation for a rewarding career in the sector.

WA School-based Apprentice of the Year

Ameerah Tullock-Brierly – Port Hedland

Certificate II in Workplace Skills

Trained at: North Regional TAFE

Employed by: Programmed

Growing up in the Pilbara, Ameerah experienced the impact mining has had on both industry and community, which led her to pursue a school-based traineeship with host company, Fortescue Metals Group in Business Administration. She is a proud Indigenous woman, the Year 12 School Captain at Hedland Senior High School, and is committed to being a positive role model to others. Ameerah has developed a passion for learning and taking on new challenges as she seeks to build a long-term career within the resources sector.

Adam Hobden – South Hedland

Certificate II in Rail Infrastructure

Trained at: Iron Training & Consulting

Employed by: Category 5 Group Training Organisation

Since undertaking a school-based apprenticeship, Adam has grown in confidence and gained new skills in the rail infrastructure industry. With a long-standing interest in large-scale machinery, infrastructure and the way transport systems support mining operations, he has embraced every opportunity to learn and develop. Currently working in Port Hedland, Adam is gaining hands-on experience on BHP's rail network and contributing to one of the world's largest iron ore export operations. He is building a solid foundation for the next step in his career journey – achieving his goal of becoming a train driver.

Lee Stimpson – Port Hedland

Certificate II in Engineering

Trained at: North Regional TAFE

Employed by: Programmed

Lee's drive and ambition to succeed is inspiring. He decided to complete both a Certificate II in Engineering and a Certificate II in Rail Track Maintenance, as he believes the dual pathway will allow him to build his skills across both port and rail operations, maximising his employment opportunities. Lee secured a work placement with Fortescue Metals Group and enjoys the practical hands-on experience the school-based apprenticeship pathway offers. Lee would like to pursue a career in either the heavy diesel mechanical or electrical trades.

Marlissa White – The Vines

Certificate II in Automotive Services Technology

Trained at: MTA WA

Employed by: WesTrac

Entering into a male-dominated industry did not deter Marlissa from pursuing a career in the automotive industry. She's always had an interest in understanding how cars and boats operate and has a personal goal to rebuild her own vehicles one day, which is why this school-based apprenticeship was ideal for her. Currently employed by WesTrac, and undertaking one of their first ever traineeships, Marlissa is developing personally and professionally and enjoys inspiring others to consider a VET pathway.

WA Apprentice of the Year

Xavier Adamos – Leederville

Certificate III in Engineering – Mechanical Trade (Fitting)

Trained at: North Metropolitan TAFE

Employed by: Rio Tinto Iron Ore

Xavier completed a pre-apprenticeship in engineering (heavy fabrication) and completed a Certificate II in Engineering all while still in high school. From an early age, he knew he thrived in a practical learning environment where problem-solving and technical thinking were required, which is why he says a university pathway was not the right fit for him. Aligned perfectly with Xavier's strengths, VET has allowed him to develop hands-on skills in a real-world context while establishing a meaningful and sustainable career.

Cassie Beattie – Bedford

Certificate III in Engineering – Industrial Electrician, Certificate IV in Engineering – Instrumentation

Trained at: North Regional TAFE and South Metropolitan TAFE

Employed by: Woodside Energy

Cassie worked in corporate roles at Woodside Energy for almost a decade before deciding to pursue an apprenticeship pathway. She was drawn to the hands-on technical work that combined problem solving and continuous learning, as well as being able to contribute to the safe and reliable operation of WA's critical energy infrastructure. Through hard work and determination, Cassie is now a dual trade electrical instrumentation technician at Woodside Energy. Cassie aims to encourage other women to see apprenticeships as credible and rewarding career pathways.

Georgia Shinnick – Yalyalup

Certificate III in ESI – Distribution Overhead

Trained at: Power Training Services WA (PTS)

Employed by: Western Power

Described as a trailblazer and a powerful role model for women, Georgia has grown from strength-to-strength during her apprenticeship. She was the first female apprentice at the Western Power's Picton and Collie depot and has evolved from a dedicated apprentice into a highly skilled line worker. She has found her experience rewarding, fulfilling and one full of milestones and achievements. Georgia is passionate about encouraging other women to try something new and explore different career pathways – even in traditionally male-dominated trades.

Hannah Usher – Northam

Certificate III in ESI – Distribution Overhead

Trained at: Power Training Services WA (PTS)

Employed by: Western Power

After relocating back to Northam for family reasons, Hannah was given the opportunity to reassess her career. It motivated her to pursue work in a completely new industry and challenge herself. After spending 10 years working in immigration detention, she chose to pursue a completely different career in electricity distribution, attracted by the hands-on nature of the work and the long-term career opportunities it provided. Hannah started her apprenticeship with Western Power as mature-aged apprentice and has since gained resilience, technical competence and a renewed belief in her abilities.

WA Small Employer of the Year

Apex Utilities Pty Ltd

Apex Utilities (Apex) is a Western Australian-owned utilities contractor specialising in horizontal directional drilling and complex underground infrastructure. Delivering critical water, gas, power and telecommunications networks, Apex has built its reputation on a commitment to workforce development, embedding nationally recognised training and apprenticeships at the core of its operations.

Renowned for its strong safety culture, leadership development and practical, on-the-job training model, Apex is developing the next generation of skilled utilities professionals while driving innovation, diversity and capability across Western Australia's civil infrastructure sector.

Wild Rose Hair Pty Ltd

Rose Hoffman founded Wild Rose Hair Salon on a vision to create a warm, welcoming space where clients feel truly connected and valued. Growing from a small team of three to a thriving salon of 10, Wild Rose is built on the values of family, sustainability, community and creativity. Moving to a newer, bigger salon was a huge step but seemed the right move when a larger property in the area became available.

Committed to eco-friendly practices and partnerships, the salon combines exceptional hair services with a low-impact approach. Its purpose-designed space reflects a passion for beauty, wellbeing and creating a sense of belonging for both clients and staff.

WA Large Employer of the Year

ABN Group

ABN Group (ABN) is Australia's leading construction, property and finance company. Its purpose is to deliver the dream of owning a home and it has helped thousands of Australians achieve home ownership since 1978. Operating more than 17 businesses and supported by over 1,200 employees and 3,000 contractors, ABN Group places workforce development at the heart of its success.

Through its award-winning Group Training Organisation and dedicated People Development Team, ABN has supported more than 1,700 construction apprentices and continues to invest in apprenticeships, traineeships and professional development pathways that build a skilled, future-ready workforce across Western Australia.

ASC Pty Ltd

Australian Submarine Company (ASC) is Australia's sovereign submarine sustainment and capability partner, playing a critical role in supporting the nation's naval defence and future AUKUS objectives.

For more than 40 years, ASC has invested heavily in workforce development, dedicating three to four per cent of annual payroll to training; supporting over 170 apprentices, trainees and staff undertaking vocational education. Through strategic partnerships with South Metropolitan TAFE, the Royal Australian Navy, the Australian Nuclear Science and Technology Organisation and defence industry leaders, ASC is building a highly skilled workforce equipped to deliver Australia's most complex submarine programs, including future nuclear-powered submarine capability.

BHP Operations Services

BHP Western Australia Iron Ore (WAIO) is a cornerstone of Australia's resources sector, delivering world-class mining, rail and port operations across the Pilbara. Through its Future Fit Academy Partnerships Team, BHP supports around 400 apprentices and trainees at any one time, creating sustainable pathways into skilled trades and operational careers.

Renowned for its innovative, site-based training model and strong regional workforce focus, BHP invests in developing future-ready talent, building critical capability, supporting local communities and ensuring a skilled workforce for its long-term operations.

WA Industry Collaboration Award

Solid Leadership – Rising Leaders Program Kimberley Aboriginal Medical Services Ltd

The Solid Leadership – Rising Leaders Program is a collaborative leadership development initiative led by Kimberley Aboriginal Medical Services (KAMS) in partnership with North Regional TAFE and the National Indigenous Australians Agency.

Designed to nurture emerging Aboriginal leaders across the Kimberley, the program combines mentoring, leadership assessment, individual development planning and the Diploma of Leadership and Management. Delivered through intensive On-Country training blocks, the program fosters culturally responsive and culturally safe learning, strengthens regional leadership capability, and creates pathways for participants to take on greater responsibility within their organisations and communities.

Education Development Program (EDP) Kwinana Industries Council

The Education Development Program (EDP) is a long-standing partnership between Kwinana Industries Council, 20 secondary schools and South Metropolitan TAFE, creating strong pathways from education to industry.

Established in 2012, the program connects students with local employers, nationally recognised training and real-world career opportunities across the Western Trade Coast. Renowned for its exceptional completion rates, industry engagement and wrap-around student support, the EDP equips young people with the skills, confidence and workplace readiness needed to successfully transition into apprenticeships, further training and sustainable employment.

National Energy Technician Training Scheme Programmed Training Services

The National Energy Technician Training Scheme (NETTS), spearheaded by Programmed Training Services, is a pioneering industry collaboration that brings together leading oil and gas operators and more than 20 partner organisations to develop the next generation of energy technicians.

Established to address skills shortages and create a sustainable workforce pipeline, NETTS delivers a standardised, high-quality apprenticeship model focused on safety, technical capability and industry readiness. Through shared training, cross-company secondments and a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion, NETTS has strengthened workforce development across the energy sector while creating meaningful career pathways for young Australians.

WA Large Training Provider of the Year

MTA WA Training Inc

Established in 1934, MTA WA Training (MTA) is Western Australia's leading automotive training provider and the Registered Training Organisation of the Motor Trade Association of WA. Serving nearly 1,600 member businesses across the automotive supply chain, MTA delivers industry-led education, trains almost half of the State's light vehicle apprentices, and manages WA's largest automotive Group Training Organisation.

MTA is at the forefront of electric vehicle, renewable energy and emerging automotive technology training, developing highly skilled, future-ready technicians equipped to meet and support the evolving needs of a rapidly transforming industry.

Training Worx Australia

Training Worx Australia (Training Worx) is dedicated to making the difficult easy. Delivering nationally recognised qualifications in training and assessment, business, leadership and work health and safety, Training Worx has experienced significant growth in recent years and now supports almost 600 learners annually across Western Australia and beyond.

Renowned for its flexible delivery, strong industry partnerships and exceptional completion rates, the organisation is also leading innovation through the integration of artificial intelligence and emerging workforce capabilities, equipping learners and industries with future-focused skills for long-term success.

Trainwest

Trainwest's core business is the delivery of nationally accredited VET qualifications across mining, construction, health care, and community services. Since 2006, Trainwest has grown into a trusted industry partner, combining quality, compliance, and innovation to support workforce development. With strong industry connections, learner-focused delivery, and a commitment to continuous improvement, Trainwest empowers individuals and organisations through high-quality training that creates lasting capability and meaningful outcomes.
