

Summary of current situation

What was achieved this week:

- A total of 2,405 fuel station inspections have been undertaken since the start of our inspection blitz in early March, resulting in 111 infringements issued.
- The Consumer Protection Commissioner continues to monitor pricing to ensure transparency for WA fuel users.
- Fuel supplies are stable for August and September, and fuel station stockouts remain low across the State.
- While supply is currently stable, the Fuel Industry Operations Group continues to meet and the Government is ready to act should circumstances change.
- Announced support for our vital freight industry by extending the larger road train trial and increased mass allowance for critical goods like fuel and fertiliser.
- We've amended regulations so petrol importers have greater flexibility to get fuel into WA during the current period of uncertainty.
- We're taking the first steps towards building a new fuel refinery in Western Australia.
- To date, over 930,000 Western Australians have successfully claimed the WA fuel support payment. More information at wa.gov.au/FuelPayment

Keeping Australia Moving

Fuel supply continues to operate effectively, but localised supply disruptions are occurring. Federal and State Governments are taking precautionary actions to shore up supply.

Using legislative provisions to ensure timely information from industry.

Considering regulatory reforms to improve freight efficiency.

Monitoring and reporting fuel station supply, including diesel.

Monitoring economic impacts on fuel-exposed industries.
